DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's election of Group I, species of first compound of claim 11 in the reply filed on Aug. 14, 2008 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Further applicants provided no evidence that the diversified method, multiple component composition or method of use are inexorably linked to the core structure of the compounds. It is well established in the field of akt enzyme system art that multiple isozymes existed with distinct and independent functional activity (see Tessier et al.). The specification provided on pages 43-49 description of assay procedures without any data supporting an inexorable link between the activity of the compound and the down stream functional relationship. Therefore, none of the method of use claims is considered rejoinable.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim 8 and claims 1-7, 15-18 reading on claim 8 is prosecuted. The remaining subject matter of claims 1-7, 15-18 and claims 9-14, 19-20 are withdrawn from consideration per 37 CFR 1.142(b).

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.

4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-8, 15-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Duggan et al. US 7,414,055 in view of Bilodeau et al. US 7,304,063 supplemented with Zhao et al.

Determination of the scope and content of the prior art (MPEP §2141.01)

Duggan et al. '055 disclosed diphenyl substituted pyridinyl compounds having Akt activity.

Ascertainment of the difference between the prior art and the claims (MPEP §2141.02)

The difference between Duggan et al. '055 and the instant claims is that instead of an aminoalkyl substitution on the 2-phenyl moiety, the instant claim have a cycliaminoalkyl substitution. Bilodeu et al. taught that in analogous art diphenyl substituted heteraryl Akt active compound art, cyclic amino alkyl substitution on the 2-phenyl moiety will offer similar activity.

Finding of prima facie obviousness—rational and motivation (MPEP§2142-2143)

One having ordinary skill in the art is deemed to be aware of all the relevant art in the field. The above references placed the desirable structural attributes of similar compounds in the possession of one skilled in the art. The modification of one proven compounds with attributes of another proven compound is prima facie obvious. Especially, the Zhao et al. reference, although is published after the application date, provided evidence that such modification is indeed operable since the amino alkyl and cyclic amino alkyl substituted compounds have similar activity (see p.908, table 4, compound 8a vs 8b).

3. Claims 1-8, 15-18 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1-8 of U.S. Patent No. 7,414,055 in view of claims 1-9 of US Patent No. 7,304,063 supplemented with Zhao et al.

The same rationale for finding the compounds disclosed in Duggan et al. '055 in view of Bilodeau et al. '063 supplemented with Zhao et al. as delineated supra is also applicable and hereby incorporated by reference.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).
